BAY FACTS

The Chesapeake Bay is surprisingly shallow. Its average depth, including all tidal tributaries, is about 21 feet. A person who is six feet tall could wade through over 700,000 acres of the bay and never get their hat wet.

The Bay supports more than 3,600 species of plants, fish and animals.

The Bay produces about 500,000,000 pounds of seafood per year.
